Lois Weitendorf And Lewis Ebert Married In Frankfort Church

At a 7:30 candlelight ceremony in St. Peter's Evan. Reformed Church at Frankfort on Saturday evening, Oct. 26, Miss Lois Weitendorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weitendorf, became the bride of Lewis Ebert, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ebert.

The Rev. Erich Bizer officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar lighted with candles. The church was decorated with palms and baskets of lovely fall flowers.

Preceding the service Mrs. Bizer played a group of love songs and also accompanied Catherine Lambrecht as she sang "Thru the Years," and "Oh Promise Me."

Miss Irene Ebert, sister of the groom and Miss Shirley Weichbrodt, lighted the candles. They wore identical gowns of Aqua Taffeta and each wore a wristlet of yellow baby Mums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a white satin dress with marquisette yoke of lace trimmed, tapering long sleeves and long train. She wore a strand of pearls a gift of the groom and carried a beautiful bouquet of white Mums.

Miss Elsie Bengston of Chicago served her cousin as maid of honor. She wore an ice blue broadened satin gown with cap sleeves, elbow length lace gloves and a blue blusher veil. Her bouquet was white and blue Mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Wilma Mark and Miss Harriet Baude, friends of the bride, wore pink dresses identical of the maid of honor's with lace gloves and pink blusher veils. Their bouquets were white and blue Mums and pink carnations.

Little Vivian Eisenbrandt, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, she wore a floor length blue taffeta dress and a blue crownless bonnet.

Fred Weitendorf Jr. brother of the bride served the groom as best man. Roy Ebert brother of the groom and Marvin Weitendorf brother of the bride were ushers. While the bridal couple knelt at the altar, Miss Lambrecht sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a brown crepe dress trimmed with gold sequins and a corsage of yellow baby Mums.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for 150 relatives and friends.

The bride was attired in a going away suit of gabardine with black accessories and a corsage of white mums. They will spend their honeymoon in the Smokey Mountains of Tennessee. After their return they will reside in Tinley Park.

School Committee Start Work On New District Boundaries

The Will County School Survey Committee met for its 45th time this week since its coming into being over a year ago.

All previous meetings were for the following purposes:

1. Acquainting people throughout the County with the provisions of the State School Survey Law.

2. Studying existing school districts with a view to recommending desirable reorganization.

At this week's meeting held in the Office of Louis F. Bottino, Will County Superintendent of Schools, the Committee began work on setting up new school district boundaries. The Committee's recommendations will later be presented to the people for approval or disapproval, as they see fit.

Although the Committee is not ready to divulge their recommendations at this time, the new units recommended will:

1. Aim to do away with all Non-High School Territory.

2. Aim to organize Will County into larger administrative units, that is, to decrease greatly the number of school districts which we now have in Will County.

The Will County School Survey Committee hopes to be able to show that through their recommendations there will be:

1. A fairer distribution of the school tax burden.

2. Greater educational opportunity for all children for no greater cost.

Members of the Will County School Survey Committee are: Floyd Olson, Chairman, Joliet, Illinois; Carleton Steigle, Vice-Chairman, Plainfield, Illinois; Alexander Brown, Wilmington, Ill.; Glenn Miller, Lockport, Ill.; Elmer Morrison, Monee, Ill.; Henry Schelwe, Beecher, Ill.; Paul Schilling, Naperville, Ill.; Henry Schroeder, Peotone, Ill.; Norman Reigle, Peotone, Ill.

FARM BUREAU URGES

"YES" VOTE ON

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

The Will County Farm Bureau, along with all other farm bureaus in the state and the Illinois Agricultural Association are urging that its members and the public in general take an active interest in the November 5th election and that all go to the polls and vote "yes" on the proposed amendment to the state constitution, according to H. J. Schroeder, President of the Will County Farm Bureau.

While this is commonly known as the "Gateway Amendment" it will appear on the ballot as "A proposal to amend section 2 of Article 14 of the Constitution." Look for it in the upper left hand corner on the main ballot.

If you fail to vote, it will be counted as a "No" vote. Therefore, it is important that everyone who votes at all should vote "Yes" on this important proposed constitutional change. This is a non-partisan issue since both major political parties are in favor of it. Practically all organizations are urging their members to vote in favor of it as it is realized that while our constitution is basically and fundamentally sound, a few changes need to be made.

Our present constitution was adopted in 1870. Five amendments were adopted to it prior to 1911. Since that time only two amendments have been adopted. Our constitution is so difficult to amend because it requires a majority of all votes cast in the election. The new amendment would make it possible for future amendments to be adopted by a two-thirds vote of those who vote upon the amendment without any regard to the total number of persons voting.

While this is a so-called off-year election, it is nevertheless a most important one. Every eligible voter should take time off on Nov. 5 and vote "Yes" on this proposed constitutional amendment.

BAKERY AND FANCY WORK SALE

The Woman's Guild of the Trinity Lutheran Church of New Lenox will serve a turkey dinner in the church parlors Wednesday Nov. 13 starting at 5:30 P. M. Everybody is invited.

The report comes that they had taken a small trailer belonging to Mr. Howard Ayers and were going north on Cedar road, just before coming to the Lincoln Highway, when Deputy Constable Dewey Moore noticed them and stopped to question them.

At the time of the shooting, Rolland's twin brother Bob Cagwin was with Moore and told him he had shot his brother but Mr. Moore insisted he had not and reprimanded him for his insistence of the same. Whereupon Mr. Moore took Bob into custody and drove away.

As the companions of Rolland were carrying him to the Norman Grund's home, Bob noticed them and called Mr. Moore's attention to the fact that they were carrying his brother and urged him to go to the Grund's home, which he did, and was very surprised to learn he had shot Rolland.

As the parents of the Cagwin boys were visiting in Joliet that evening, Mr. Grund took Rolland and Bob at once to Silver Cross hospital and Mr. and Mrs. Cagwin were called. X-rays were taken which showed the bullet did not pierce the bone, but went into the calf of the leg.

Rolland will remain in the hospital for a week when it is thought he will be able to return home, but will not be able to resume his studies at the Joliet Township High School for about five or six weeks.

The incident was reported to the Will County Sheriff who took the gun from Mr. Moore. The latter is reported to regret the accident very much and says he will never carry a gun again.

WILL COUNTY HEALTH BOARD

MEETING AT WILMINGTON

Tuesday evening, the Will County Board of Health met in Wilmington in the office of Dr. Gordon L. Richards, who is a member of the Board. This was their last meeting before the Nov. 5th election, at which time the citizens of Will County will vote on the special ballot for the local tax levy for Public Health Services.

As a war emergency measure a County Health Department was established in Will County in July, 1942. This department has been financed by county and state funds on approximately a 20-80 basis. The County Supervisors adopted the emergency County Health Dept. by resolution, in order that the citizens might have the opportunity to vote on keeping these services on a permanent local basis. If the vote carries, the County Health Dept., will then be financed by the special tax for Public Health purposes. State aid will pay about 20 percent of the budget.

The Searcy-Clabaugh County Health Law was enacted by the General Assembly in 1943. Any county which meets the provisions as stated in this law may now establish and maintain a County Health Department. So for the first time in the State of Illinois a county may have a locally controlled full-time health department.

Last spring over 5500 registered voters of Will County signed petitions which were submitted to the County Board of Supervisors, requesting the maintenance of a county health department in Will County and the levy of an additional tax of not to exceed .05 percent of the full fair cash value to be assessed by the Department of Revenue on all taxable property of the county.

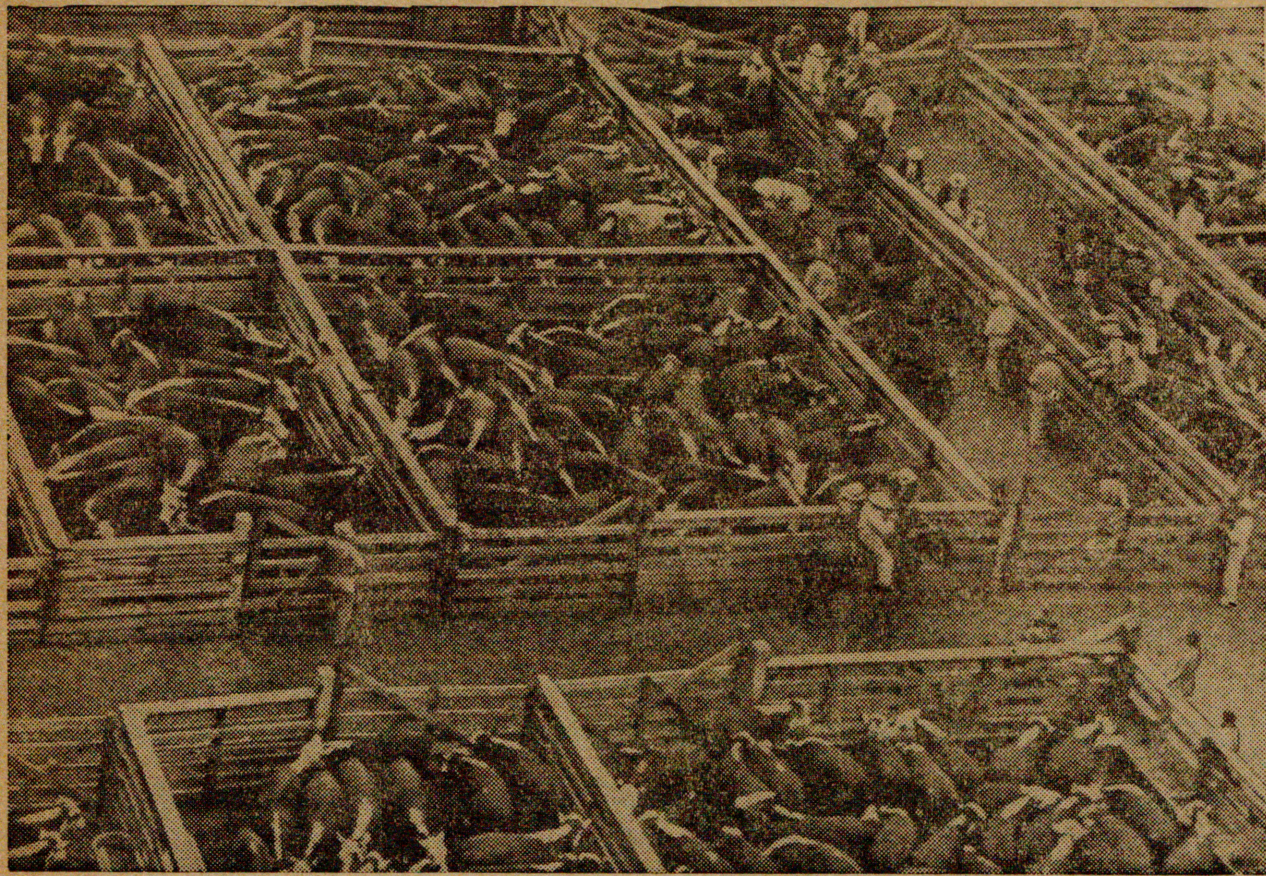

The County Board of Supervisors instructed the county clerk that at the next general election, Nov. 5, the people vote upon a special ballot, which will state the proposition of this petition. If a majority of all the votes cast upon this proposition are in favor, the County Board of Supervisors shall immediately proceed to notify the Board of Health that the County Health Dept., will be retained.

The Tax of not to exceed 5 cents on each $100 shall be then levied.

The County Health Dept., will be managed by the County Board of Health which consists of 7 members. All members serve without compensation. At least 2 members shall be physicians licensed in Illinois, and at least one member shall be a dentist licensed in Illinois.

Economical Storage Of Farm Vegetables

Storage Requirements Of Product To Be Held

By W. J. DRYDEN

Home storage, while economical, is an activity requiring a thorough knowledge of the storage requirements of the products to be held. Various types of storage houses or pits may be utilized. They might include cellar, basement, pits, silos or mound storage.

Michigan station recommends a barrel, covered with soil, straw and more soil for outdoor storage for root crops.

A good storage room or pit must provide a temperature slightly above freezing and a high relative humidity. When storage mounds are used, such as the one illustrated, they should be located on a well-drained area.

The root crops, including beets, carrots, turnips, rutabagas, salsify, parsnips and winter radishes, as a whole are easily stored. They require little air circulation. A temperature near 32 degrees Fahrenheit with a relative humidity of 80 to 90 per cent is advised.

A vegetable storage room built deep in the ground makes an ideal place to store vegetables. The ground temperature below six feet will remain about the same the year around. For the summer vegetables, or hot vegetables, such as sweet potatoes and cashews, the temperature should not fall below 50 degrees Fahrenheit. In building storage for vegetables, it must be borne in mind that vegetables breathe and some means should be provided for changing the air occasionally.

KNOW YOUR BREED Duroc

Miss Cherry Brenda, Illinois prize-winning Duroc sow.

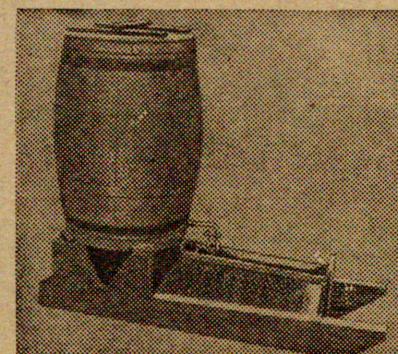

Durocs originated in northeastern United States, the result of a cross of red hogs. While they vary in shades, the most popular is the cherry red.

Durocs are hearty, prolific, good mothers and good grazers.

The Durocs have been known for their superior prolificacy, exceptionally rapid growth and feeding qualities for more than 60 years. The present medium type possesses high quality and quantity of standard cuts demanded by the market.

Durocs should reach a weight of 200 pounds at six months of age. Shoulders are smooth and fleshy on top and sides. Sides have good length, depth and smoothness.

Now Is Time to Start

Pasture Improvement

Tests at University of Arkansas showed that it was possible to increase the weight of cattle by 100 pounds by proper fertilization of pastures. Now is the time for farmers to take stock of their pastures and see what improvements may be made for next year. Where no desirable perennial plant is growing voluntarily, it may be necessary to provide the sod. Tests should be made of fertilizer needs.

AFTER watching the scramble for world series seats and hearing of the record demand for every game that teams like Army, Michigan and Notre Dame play, one begins to wonder how many over-eager fans are turned away in the course of a year.

The waste in the matter of spectators runs far into the millions. In fact, it will surpass many hundreds of millions, since on certain big occasions far more people are turned away than the number of those admitted.

The Red Sox office in Boston told me that, with room enough, the Boston seat sale for the World Series would have passed the 500,000 mark. This means that about 80 per cent of the ticket applicants were turned away.

Army feels confident that it could have played before more than 250,000 at Ann Arbor, if Michigan had a 250,000 stadium, and just as certain it could play before close to a million in the Notre Dame game.

Unfortunately, when earlier stands were built no one saw the possibilities of any such public demand.

Certainly New York didn't, where there is no such bowl as so many other cities have.

Los Angeles can handle 103,000 at her Municipal stadium, with Pasadena only a few miles away, able to put away over 90,000. With Santa Anita and Hollywood set for racing, Los Angeles is well in front so far as accommodations for the human frame are concerned.

Philadelphia and Chicago have 100,000 plants at the Sesqui-centennial stadium and Soldier field.

New York's Big Parks

But their ball parks are too meager, along with so many other cities.

The Yankees have the only ball park that can seat 70,000 fans. Polo grounds and Briggs stadium are about on a par at 53,000. Outside of these places, few ball parks can seat more than 35,000 with any comfort. Public interest in sport, almost every variety of sport, has grown far beyond seating or even standing space. They can handle far bigger crowds in England and Scotland because hillsides often are used. In the matter of football or baseball, it is difficult to build stadiums that could handle more than 110,000 or possibly 125,000 spectators.

When crowds reach or pass these marks, too many spectators are too far away from the scene of conflict or contest. But there is vast room for improving conditions, where space too often is much too limited. The Michigan stadium at Ann Arbor leads all strictly college facilities with room for slightly over 86,000 spectators. With over 100,000 applications for the Army-Michigan game, you can see how inadequate this is.

Just what will be done about the situation is a story for the future, with lack of space and also lack of building material. But many an owner or promoter has wasted many a sigh in thinking of all the lost gold from so many millions crowded out.

Too Much Baseball

There was a good deal of talk, during the recent series, about how baseball is extending its playing season deep into football's brief weeks. Then too, there's the matter of traveling.

We were wondering what would happen in the future when Los Angeles or San Francisco had to face Boston or Brooklyn.

A world series that rolls back and forth from ocean to ocean could be much worse than this shift from St. Louis to Boston and back.

The Mississippi isn't nearly as far away from the Atlantic ocean as the Pacific ocean is.

The main fact is that baseball is crowding much too far into the football season.

Naturally, baseball magnates can't see it that way. They have failed to realize that football is now as much of a major sport as baseball ever was, or ever will be.

If a series happens to run into a day or two of rain, those who follow both baseball and football see their first football game around midseason. This doesn't happen to make any sense. Baseball gets its start back in February. It has at least a six months' span. Football only asks for two and a half months.

Football Rankings

The majority of football fans agree that Texas university belongs on top, or close to the top of the heap, as far as this season goes.

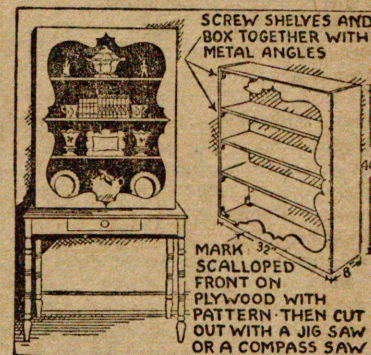

Army and Notre Dame are ranked close alongside, with Michigan in fourth place.

It remains to be seen what Michigan will do in its remaining games. Also more than a trifle of Army's future depends on Doc Blanchard's condition.

Nurse Shortage Hits Hospitals

Two Out of Every Three Have Empty Beds; Help Lacking.

NEW YORK.—Shortage of nurses has hit two out of three hospitals in this country. Some have been forced to close their operating rooms and many more have closed down entire wings.

In New York City alone, 1,253 beds were empty because there aren't enough nurses to go around.

It's an oversupply of patients rather than a sudden drop in the number of nurses ready for duty that is to blame, says Mary M. Roberts, editor of the American Journal of Nursing.

At the moment, Miss Roberts says there are about 300,000 registered nurses available, less some 16,000 still in the services. Five years ago the figure was 290,000 nurses. Compare those figures with the hospital's patient lists—the American Hospital association estimates an increase of 220,544 patients admitted in 1945 over the 1944 tally—and it begins to be apparent why there aren't enough nurses.

Rising hospital lists do not mean that the national health is taking a turn for the worse, Miss Roberts explains. They mean just that people are going to hospitals more willingly and in greater numbers. Here are her reasons for the increase:

1. Large additions to the membership lists of group hospitalization plans mean that more people are going to hospitals for illnesses that formerly would have been treated at home. The Blue Cross plan alone has some 23,000,000 members now, compared with less than 2,000,000 in 1937.

2. The high birth rate and the government's emergency maternity and infant care (EMIC) program has sent maternity ward figures way up. Births in 1944, for example, were 705,484 above 1940.

3. Wartime advances in scientific medicine, and the establishment of such hospital divisions as nutrition departments, has brought more patients into the hospitals.

4. Doctors find it increasingly easier to take care of their patients in hospitals instead of at home.

5. People aren't afraid of hospitals any more. As a matter of fact, "they sometimes welcome the hospital as a place to relax in."

On the nurses' side of the ledger, Miss Roberts explains that some 76,000 were originally in the services. Some of these have married and are temporarily or permanently retired. Others are taking advanced courses under the G. I. Bill of Rights and are in school instead of on duty. Still others are taking a well earned rest on terminal leave pay checks.

Need Student Nurses. In addition, the shortage of orderlies, maids and other hospital attendants cuts down the efficiency of the nurses, Miss Roberts continues. Nurses vitally needed on duty find themselves taking care of diet kitchens, preparing patients' trays and doing hundreds of jobs formerly left to other workers. The assistance from student nurses isn't what it should be, either—a campaign to recruit 40,000 by September has netted only 15,000 so far.

The American Hospital association believes that part of the shortage is due to an increased interest in industrial nursing, and the number of nurses going into veterans' hospitals, school systems and the public health service.

The Sweeping Tides

by H. M. EGBERT

W. N. U. SERVICE

Mark Darrell, young American lumberman, is boss of a lumber camp near St. Victor, Canada. Nat Page is his assistant. Madame Madeleine Kinross, the young widow who owns the timberland, is trying to persuade Mark to cancel the lease. Her lawyer, Horace Broussac, has offered Mark $6,000, but Mark refuses to give up a good thing. At a critical point in lumbering operations, the French-Canadian workmen strike for double wages. Mark pays them off. A log jam threatens to ruin his hopes, but with the aid of the foreman, Larousse, Mark saves the timber. By a clever stratagem, Mark gets his men to offer to return to work. He suspects Broussac was the fomentor of his labor troubles.

CHAPTER V

"Tell them they made a mistake," he said. "I'm not going to reward them for making a mistake. Next fall, when the work begins in earnest, I may consider a fifty cents raise. If they come back now, they come back at two dollars."

Louis interpreted rapidly. "If they want to come back," Mark continued, "tell them they can move back into their cabins as soon as possible, and get that load of lumber put through the mill."

But the men understood. Grins of gratitude had supplanted the looks of shame and eagerness. Louis marshaled his men to form them in column and march them away again—Louis had once been a corporal in France.

Nat said, as he watched the departing crowd, "I didn't think you'd put that across, Mark."

"I had a hunch that money was going to talk, even with Broussac here," said Mark. "I guess he'll be on the job soon."

"Would you sell if he made you a real offer?"

Mark shook his head. "I'm here to stay," he answered. And then he knew that he was thinking of Madeleine Kinross.

Broussac didn't delay. He came next morning, driving up in a rig with a spirited horse. In the mill the dynamos were revolving, the barkers whirring, the chain drag traveling up the flume, carrying its load of logs. Pikemen, standing on the rafts, were spearing the logs and attaching them to the mechanism that started them on their journey millward.

Broussac got out of his rig and came forward, hand outstretched. Mark hesitated an instant, and then took it again. The lawyer entered the office and dropped into a chair. He looked at Mark with a cynical smile upon his lips.

"You appear to have won, Mr. Darrell," he said.

"My understanding was that there would be no opposition from you," said Mark.

"Violence," corrected Broussac. "I guaranteed that St. Victor should treat you with the consideration due to you. I should make it plain to you that it is not my own opposition you had to encounter, but that of the whole town, which is loyal to the wife of its late seigneur."

Mark, sitting silent, looked into the keen, intelligent face of the lawyer. Broussac had come to make some offer, of course. But why? What was the element behind his opposition that Mark didn't understand?

"I want to ask you a question," said Broussac. "Just why do you attach so much value to your leasehold rights, if adequate compensation for them were allowed you?"

"I might ask you," Mark returned, "why you attach so much importance to getting me out of St. Victor. But I am not going to ask you that question. I prefer to answer yours. I have undertaken a job, and I have a liking for staying on it, Monsieur Broussac."

"Ah," said Broussac, "I thought you Americans regarded everything from the monetary point of view. But let me make my own position clearer. I was raised, a poor boy, in the slums of Quebec. All my life I have sought position, wealth, ease, a settled place in the world. I have gained these, for I am going to marry Madeleine Kinross."

Mark Refuses a Tempting Offer

Mark felt something like a stab at his heart as he looked into the lawyer's face. He had guessed it; but that didn't make it any the easier to take.

"You see, Mr. Darrell," Broussac went on, "we want the rights back, rights that were leased to you under rather desperate financial circumstances. At first, when you refused my offer, I thought you were bluffing, in the American way. But I no longer think you were bluffing. I think you are an obstinate young man. Mr. Darrell, I want you to leave St. Victor. And I have come to make you another offer. Fifteen thousand dollars, plus the proceeds from the sale of that lumber."

Mark shook his head. "Frankly, no," he answered. "My backers have authorized me to go ahead. They would not understand any such arrangement, and they would withdraw their support from me. No, Monsieur Broussac, I am not prepared to accept your offer—or any other."

Broussac's mouth opened. He stared, then nodded his head gravely, rose, and went back to his rig. In another minute he was driving furiously back toward St. Victor.

Mark left Nat to take charge of the operations. He packed a blanket and a little food, and started out alone to look over his limits, with the intention of spending a night or two in the open.

Mark wondered whether Broussac's explanation of his motives was actually true. And then he discovered that he wasn't thinking about that. He was thinking about Broussac's declared intention of marrying Madeleine Kinross, his enemy, who had nevertheless saved his lumber for him.

Barely sixteen when she married Kinross, half-an-hour before the seigneur sailed to his death aboard his sealing-schooner!

Mark remembered the white face she had turned upon him when he staggered ashore, after Louis had pulled him out of the foaming water. "I'm glad! I'm glad!" she had cried.

Then Mark had known he loved her. But unconsciously he had known it from the first night, when he saw her big, gray eyes fixed upon his in anger.

Mark hadn't thought much about love for three or four years. Of course, he had gone through his experiences, but the woods had become an absorbing passion with him, the desire to tame the wilds, as a horseman tames some wild steed. All his suppressed instincts had come flooding back when she cried, "I'm glad! I'm glad!"

The woods had become an absorbing passion with him.

At nightfall, in the warm spring evening, Mark laid down his blanket under a big spruce and curled up in it. In a few minutes he was asleep, not dreaming even of Madeleine Kinross.

He awoke at dawn, stretched himself, and realized how good life was, and how petty were the things that had been troubling him.

He built a fire, cooked a few strips of bacon, made tea and ate the stale bread that he had brought with him. Afterward he ascended a slope above him to get his bearings.

The river ran on his right, foaming down to the flume. On his left, to his surprise, he saw the natural bridge that connected the seignior with the all-but-island on which stood the lighthouse. And beyond this, through a dense growth of trees, Mark could see the slender shaft of the lighthouse, on its base of rocks.

Madeleine Tells Cousin Broussac to Get Out

Suddenly again the remembrance of Madeleine Kinross flooded him with tenderness. The idea came to Mark to go and see the girl, and try to make his peace with her. There was no doubt that she was influenced by Broussac. And his own tenure of the seignior lands would be but for four or five years, during which she would be getting stumpage money from him. There wasn't any reason for the opposition she had shown him.

If he could make his peace with her, that would mean the end of the fight with Broussac.

That was the nature of Mark's reasoning. Actually—well, he knew he just wanted to see the girl again. He made his way along the trail toward the rock bridge and down the roughly terraced steps toward the lighthouse and Madeleine's cottage.

Then a roughly dressed figure emerged from the scrub and stood confronting him, an ancient pistol in his hand. It was Andre Galipeault, the lighthouse-keeper, his face convulsed with fury.

"You do not come here! You go back! Nobody wants you here!" the old man shouted.

"Suppose you tell me what's the matter," Mark suggested.

"You go, you spy, you Quebec detective. The seigneur is dead. He died in the fog, when the piece of ice broke away and he was left on it. I protect the lady of the seigneur!"

He leveled the old pistol at Mark's heart. Mark saw his finger trembling upon the trigger, and leaped. There followed the roar of the discharge, and the heavy ball whirled over Mark's shoulder. Mark tore the weapon from the old man's hands and sent it crashing into the scrub.

"You are an old fool, Andre," he said. "If you had killed me, you'd have swung by the neck in Quebec jail."

Old Andre's face was convulsed with terror. "Ah, mon Dieu!" he muttered. "The seigneur is dead, and you—you come here to—"

Mark passed on, leaving the old man muttering by the roadside. The cause of his hostility was utterly meaningless to him, but it made it the more imperative to try to come to an understanding with Madeleine Kinross.

Broussac's smart rig was standing at the door of her cottage. Broussac and Madeleine were standing in the doorway. They were so absorbed in conversation that neither was aware of Mark's approach.

"You married Kinross in order to save your father's little property," came Broussac's taunting voice. "Now you can marry me, to save the seigniority."

"I tell you no, no, no!" cried the girl. "A thousand times no, never! I trusted you as my guardian, because you were related to the seigneur, and now you come to me like this..."

Broussac's hands shot forth and caught the girl's wrists. "You're all wrong, Madeleine," he said in a taunting voice. "You're going to marry me this summer!"

The crunch of Mark's feet upon the gravel before the door startled them. Broussac let Madeleine's hands fall, and swung about. For a moment his face was devilish in its sneer of hate and malice.

"I'm sorry to interfere," said Mark. "I called to see Madame Kinross."

"It might occur to you that Madame Kinross and I have some important business to discuss," sneered Broussac.

"No!" cried the girl. "I have nothing more to discuss with you, Cousin Horace. I ask you to go!"

"Then I guess I'm not interfering as much as I thought I might be," said Mark.

Broussac whirled upon him. "You have done nothing but interfere," he shouted. "You are not wanted in St. Victor. I have offered you a good sum of money to rescind the contract. I shall not go any higher. Now you are interfering in a wholly private matter concerning Madame Kinross and myself. You will go! You will go at once!" shouted the lawyer.

"Of course I'd go," said Mark. "Only I've got an idea that Madame Kinross doesn't want you."

"And that is true!" cried the girl. "I am through, Cousin Horace. You can do anything you please. I only ask that you will go."

"Then you see it is you who will go," Mark addressed the lawyer.

"And at once, please!"

Broussac lost all control of himself. He shook his fist at Mark's face. "You order me away?" he shouted. "You interloper! You will regret that you ever set foot in St. Victor! You will be fortunate if you escape from it alive."

Why Madeleine Believes Her Husband Still Lives

"Meanwhile—" said Mark, indicating his decision with a very vigorous gesture of his fists.

Broussac leaped into his rig and slapped the reins across the back of the horse, which started off up the hill.

Mark watched the lawyer drive away, turned back toward Madeleine Kinross, who was staring at him with frightened eyes. "I'm sorry," he said grimly, "but I seem to have come at an appropriate time."

"He made love to me. He wanted me to be his wife. And I had trusted him."

"I've got to admit," said Mark, "I can't altogether blame him for that."

"You don't understand. This summer, he threatened me that I should lose everything I have."

"You're twenty-one, aren't you?" asked Mark.

"Last winter."

"Then, if he was your guardian, it was his duty to give you an accounting for your property. Didn't he give you one?"

"He gave me nothing. Everything is involved. You see, the seigneur had lost a great sum of money speculating on the Quebec market. Ever since his death, Horace Broussac has been trying to regain what my husband lost. You see, he is not dead!"

Mark looked at her in silence.

"If he had died I should have felt it here—here! He is not dead. He was rescued from that ice-floe, he became insane, and he is being cared for somewhere."

Mark was still silent.

"There were three of them with him on his schooner, Alphonse Vitard, Hector Mackintosh, and Andre Galipeault."

PAUL CHAMPIONS FREEDOM AND BROTHERHOOD

TEXT—Acts 15:23b-29; Galatians 5:13-18.

SELECTION—But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.—Acts 15:11.

Fundamental doctrine must be sound and true or the church will go astray. A question had arisen at Antioch which had to be answered authoritatively, and once for all.

The early converts of the church were naturally from among the Jews, and they carried with them into their new-found faith the traditions of their religion. Some of them did not recognize that the salvation they had in Christ was entirely by grace, apart from any works of the law. They not only felt that they must observe the law, but insisted that the Gentile believers must also fulfill the Jewish rite of circumcision. This promptly raised the question whether Christ alone could save, or if men were saved by grace plus works.

To settle this matter, Paul and Barnabas went up to the church at Jerusalem, and there a great council discussed it freely, and came to a decision which was then transmitted by letter and a committee.

That decision established an eternal principle—Believers Are Free from the Law (Acts 15:23b-29).

The believers at Antioch were to abstain from those things which would hinder their spiritual progress and harm their testimony. That was important and right, but it must not be allowed to confuse them regarding the basis of their salvation. They were not saved by works, not even though they were most commendable.

Salvation is by grace, through faith, "not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8, 9). That principle, which is absolutely foundational in all Christian thinking, was established then, and is valid and blessedly true for all time.

Is it not strange, then, that all through the church's history there has been a determined effort on the part of some in the church to add something to God's redeeming grace as a ground for salvation? Observe the plain rebuke given to teachers of error in verse 24. It is no light matter to trouble and mislead the souls of men by injecting our worldly wisdom or our opinions, when we should be teaching the truth of God's Word.

Salvation by grace and freedom from the law does not bring the believer into a place of license, but of liberty—and a liberty controlled by a new factor in his life. We note that in

II. Practice—Believers Are Bound by Love (Gal. 5:13-15).

The one who turns to Christ by faith is indwelt by the Holy Spirit and finds that, far from failing to keep the high moral principles of God's law, he is given grace to keep them more perfectly. This he does, not in order to be saved, but because he is saved.

He comes out of a bondage to legalism, which he could not bear, into a new bondage to the law of love, which his new nature in Christ delights to bear and in which it finds the fulfillment of its highest and holiest desires.

Note that this shows itself in the church and in the world in loving service to others in the absence of strife; in a word, in the practice of the admonition: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (v. 14; Lev. 19:18).

No one faces that life responsibility without realizing that he is evidently not able for it. God has provided for that need, for we note next that there is

III. Power—Believers Are Led by the Spirit (Gal. 5:16-18).

Being saved does not set us free from the conflict with sin, for the old nature declares itself at enmity with the Spirit. We find it often to be in our hearts to do right, and in the decisive moment we find the flesh taking control and we cannot do the things we would (v. 17).

What is the solution of that problem? An all-out attack on sin and sinful desires? That is commendable, but it somehow doesn't work. We need a superior power to work in and through us.

That's it! There is a power in us and ready to work through us—the matchless, victorious power of the Holy Spirit. He dwells in the heart of every believer (1 Cor. 6:19) and only awaits our yielding to him that he may take control of our lives.

Walking in the Spirit (v. 18) is simply giving him the liberty to direct our lives after the will of God, day by day and moment by moment. This puts us in the way of victory, for as we walk in the Lord's way we may call on him for not only his grace, but also his strength.

Saved by grace to a life of liberty and power—such is the inestimable privilege of the Christian. Are we, are you, living up to it?

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Never use metal mesh or wire scrapers to clean enamelware utensils as they discolor, scratch, or may even chip the enamel.

Use very little water when washing oil cloths, as it is likely to soak through and destroy the cloth.

Place breaded chops or cutlets in the refrigerator for several hours before they are cooked. They will hold the crumbs better.

Choose thread a shade darker than the fabric you are mending. The result will be a better match to the eye than if the thread were exactly the same shade.

Steel knives left in hot water may lose their handles.

When using the food grinder for nuts, raisins, glazed fruits, add a little flour. This keeps them from sticking in the grinder.

Before baking your next macaroni and cheese casserole, add two tablespoonfuls of your favorite pickle relish. Gives it extra zip and flavor you will like.

If your linoleum floor is worn and cannot be replaced now and you feel you must paint it, your best bet is to try for a mottled effect. Apply a coat of good floor paint and when slightly dry use crumpled brown paper, patting to a mottled pattern.

John Kirincich Rep. Candidate for Sheriff Completes Campaign

John Kirincich, Republican candidate for sheriff in the November 5th election, is completing a county-wide campaign this week. Mr. Kirincich, who formerly served as a deputy sheriff under the late Oliver Flint, has for the past ten years been a member of the Joliet Police Department, assigned to the State's Attorney's office as an investigator. His work during this long period of service as a law-enforcement officer has taken him to all parts of the county, and he has become closely acquainted with the special protection problems of rural families.

Mr. Kirincich has worked closely with the "F" Men and other farm groups in connection with his duties as investigator for the State's Attorney's office, and has shown that he is well qualified to direct the important program of keeping rural crime out of Will County. He is known throughout the county as a law enforcement officer who is capable, fair-minded, and sincerely determined to keep the county where he was born and raised a clean and safe place in which to live. John Kirincich is married and lives with his wife and two children in Joliet.

Fred E. Busbey The Man of The Hour

Mr. Fred E. Busbey, the tireless worker for the wholesome and genuine American life as has proved in each trying occasion to be best, is a candidate for Congress from the 3rd District on the Republican ticket. For the benefit of those who may not know, we will state briefly who Mr. Busbey is.

First, he is a decent, normal good citizen. He was born in a small Illinois town, Tuscola, in 1895, and worked to get an education. He served overseas in World War I. He knows what it is to work with his hands as well as his mind. He lives with his family in his own small 5-room bungalow at 9144 S. Hoyle Ave., Chicago, where they have lived for the past 24 years.

He is proprietor of a modest yet successful business which he started himself. He's a member of a local church, belongs to the American Legion, VFW, and to local civic groups. He is interested in the welfare of his own son, in the welfare of his neighbors and their children. He's interested in his community, his city, his country. In short he's the best kind of an American.

the American Way of Life to endure so that his son and your children may enjoy the same opportunities and blessings our fore fathers and he himself has enjoyed.

For 20 years now, he has made a study of this country's problems and believes sincerely that he able to make a worthwhile contribution to his country. He is against any form of totalitarian government which dictates that the people are the servants, not the masters of the state and which distributes only the miseries and snares none of the blessings of life.

He enlisted in the U.S. Regular army in Sept. 26, 1917. His battery saw important active service in 3 major engagements: St. Mihiel, Argonne and the Meuse-Argonne offensive, and other engagements.

Upon his return to the U. S. he immediately interested himself in the Legion's Americanism program. He 1942 he became a candidate for the Republican nomination as Representative from the 3rd District and was elected.

In his election to Congress in 1942 he upset the Democratic Machine of his district for the first time in 12 years. Only the Roosevelt landslide in 1944 defeated him for re-election.

His record is outstanding and is an American which his friends say is the kind of a man to send to Congress.

Order Your 1947 Auto License NOW

Application blanks for 1947 motor vehicle plates today are available at 25,000 locations in Illinois. Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett announced.

All daily and weekly newspapers in the State, notary publics, currency exchanges, farm bureaus and automobile clubs have been furnished ample supplies of the blanks. The Secretary said that coverage has been extended from 16,000 centers which were serviced last year to 25,000 outlets this year in order to make the blanks conveniently accessible to every motorist in the State.

The deadline for applying for reassignment of numbers currently held by motorists is midnight Sunday, December first. Secretary Barrett cautioned all persons who wish to retain their 1946 numbers to have their applications in his office by that time, otherwise, those numbers will be used routinely in processing other applications.

The Secretary appealed for the cooperation of motorists in filling out the forms correctly and completely, and in attaching their 1946 registration cards to their applications. He said that even though the forms are fully explanatory thousands of applications have to be returned each year for the necessary and complete information which is required by law as a protective measure to motorists. No application can be processed he said, until the applicant has provided this required information.

"WAKE UP, AMERICA!"

What Federal Labor Policy Do We Need in the Long-range Interests of the Nation?

As debated by

Allen W. Rucker
President, Tool Owners Union; Author of "Labor's Road to Plenty"

MR. HASKEL OPENS: There is no royal road to industrial peace. The only practical method developed thus far, to adjust grievances and differences that inevitably develop between management and labor, is the technique of free collective bargaining. By such a give-and-take process, the primary parties can come to terms of agreement as to the basis of their cooperation in their joint task of producing goods or services. No other method has been as effective in minimizing strife, educating all factors in the arts of cooperation and peaceful persuasion and attaining an efficient flow of production. It should, therefore, be the policy of our Federal Government, in the long-range interests of the nation in social peace, democratic development and economic well-being, to promote free collective bargaining by every means possible. To this end, the Wagner Act must not only be kept intact in language but also in its administration and spirit. Recent shifts in Board policy allowing employer "freedom of speech" and so-called "impartial" administration have weakened the Board's capacity to assure the freedom of workers to organize without employer interference and to compel employers to bargain in good faith. These changes must be rescinded and appropriations made for Board personnel so that it can be adequate both in quantity and quality to effectuate the primary functions of the Board, namely, to protect workers' rights to organize and to stimulate free collective bargaining.

MR. RUCKER CHALLENGES: Mr. Haskel ignores the fact that free collective bargaining has practically disappeared. The owners of the tools of production have been superseded at the bargaining table by government and are expected to accept any deal made by government. This has given the organized workers tremendous special privilege over the tool owners, the unorganized workers, and the buying public. Free bargaining is the aim of every man of good will and until the basic bargaining rights of the tool owners have been restored, the nation's prosperity and national security will remain at the mercy of a handful of all-powerful labor leaders.

MR. HASKEL REPLIES: Mr. Rucker persists in his refusal to face up to the fact that free collective bargaining can be restored by management as the normal relationship with labor very simply: Management can meet with labor at the bargaining table and negotiate in good faith, i.e., with no attempts to destroy the Union. Government intervention would then disappear—unless management failed in its responsibilities to the workers, the consumers and the economy as a whole. Management must decide to play the game and live up to the rules of free and fair collective bargaining under the Wagner Act. Lip-service is not enough.

MR. RUCKER REPLIES: My "thesis" of 20% tool loss is not speculation—it is fact as proven by the Bureau of Economic Research of Notre Dame University. We did win World War II, but the fact remains that we won it with 80% of the productive equipment which we had ten years before, and the winning involved that much more privation and tragedy. The fact that we still had enough strength left is no argument whatever. The Wagner Act, as now administered, promotes special privilege, foments industrial strife, and, at present, is largely responsible for our pathetic post-war production.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

LURES WINTER VISITORS . . . Miami relies on its sandy beaches and luxurious hotels as the main inducements for winter visitors. Added attractions are planned this season in connection with the resort's 50th anniversary year.

'FUN IN THE SUN'

Miami Prepares Gala Fete
For 50th Anniversary Year

WNU FEATURES

MIAMI, FLA.—"Fun in the Sun" will be the general keynote as Miami, famed winter resort of the South, celebrates its 50th anniversary year this season.

With all wartime restrictions relaxed, the anniversary year will present Miami in all of its prewar brilliance with many added attractions. There are increased beach and park attractions, improved transportation facilities, more overseas trips available by air and sea to the Caribbean countries, Central and South America, and the prospect of going abroad by car once the Key West-Havana ferry opens.

Although the influx of visitors starts in the early fall months, the anniversary fete will not open officially until November 24.

Arrange Exhibition.

Special festivities have been arranged for the first 10 days, highlighted by an exhibition in Bayfront park showing all the inventions and innovations science can provide to make the Miami of the future an even finer place for wholesome living. Focal point for visitors will be the neon-lighted sundial in Bayfront park, which will contain a billboard of attractions.

Miami's main lure for winter visitors is its luxurious hotels and endless miles of sandy beaches. Warm waters of the gulf stream and moderate temperatures permit bathing throughout the winter months.

Hotels of Miami and Miami Beach, now released by the army and navy after their wartime needs, will be available for guests. Numbering 160, the hotels have about 12,750 rooms available.

Sports Are Stressed.

Catering to a carefree crowd, Miami will stress sports events on its fall and winter calendar. High school, college and professional gridiron contests lure the fall crowd. Culminating the football season will be the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day. Demand for seats already exceeds the supply, the bowl accommodating only 38,000 spectators. The game itself, however, will be only one of the many attractions of the Orange Bowl festival. Dates for horse and dog racing already have been set. The 120-day horse racing season will open at Tropical park December 2, continuing until January 16. Dates for Hialeah park are January 17 to March 4 while Gulfstream park will close the season, March 5 to April 19.

RAGS TO RICHES . . . Hard-pressed for cash, Audrey Dice (left) and Bennett Rathbone, former WACs and now students at a Philadelphia school under the G.I. bill of rights, started making yarn dolls. The idea clicked and now they are in business, making 1,000 dolls a week.

Women Not Recognized as Veterans

WASHINGTON.—Former servicewomen complain that the old-fashioned public fails to regard them as war veterans.

Failure to gain recognition as veterans in competition for jobs is a major problem for women, a Veterans' administration survey discloses.

"Nobody knows anything about women veterans," one woman told the VA inquiry unit. "All they recognize is women, period."

The VA survey of 1,800 former servicewomen showed two out of five found work employing skills acquired in service. Least successful were women with technical training, such as radio operators and aerographers.

Half of the women had applied for unemployment allowances and 16 per cent had drawn the allowance for more than 10 weeks.

SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Women Veteran Aid

Approximately two-thirds of women veterans of World War II, former members of the WAC, WAVES, SPARs or Marines, have applied for VA benefits either for readjustment allowances or education and training, Veterans' administration announces.

Chief difficulty of the women veterans, according to a survey, is gaining recognition of their status as veterans.

Most of the women are slower to take jobs than men. They do not want to return to former jobs but to use skills acquired in the services. Only a few women have applied for home or business loans. According to the survey, 50 per cent of the women veterans have applied for and received readjustment allowances and 16 per cent of these have drawn the allowance for more than 10 weeks, which is a considerably higher percentage than the rate shown in a similar survey of male veterans, where only nine per cent have drawn readjustment allowance for more than 10 payments in the first four months after discharge.

Questions and Answers

Q. When my husband was discharged from the army on February 2, 1946, he joined the enlisted reserve corps, at which time he was informed that he might go back on active duty at any time with his old rating and with the same family allotments. Has this been changed since his discharge?—Mrs. C.F.A., Plainview, Tex.

A. If your husband is called back during the emergency by the army, which is unlikely to happen, he would go back with his old rating and same family allotments. However, if he elects to go back on his own accord, voluntarily, he takes the same chances as any other enlisted man.

Q. Our son was killed in action December 24, 1944. Can we, his parents, draw his furlough pay? If so, we would like to get his furlough record.—Mr. and Mrs. W.L.I., Mathiston, Miss.

A. Suggest that you write to the Casualty Branch, Office of the Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C., for your son's furlough record, giving them all details of his death, his full name, serial number and rank. When you obtain it, then write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, U. S. Army, Newark 2, New Jersey, asking them about back pay, furlough pay or any other money which your son had coming to him at the time of his death.

Q. My brother was in service for three years, and was stationed in Germany. When they gave up he was A.W.O.L. Several times he was in the guard house and served time in each instance. He only had one furlough. Can he get paid on the other furloughs he should have had?—Mrs. M.M.S., Milo, Mo.

A. Furloughs do not come to soldiers arbitrarily. They are granted by their commanding officers as a privilege. It seems your brother took his own furloughs. It will be entirely up to his record and to his commanding officer whether or not he gets paid.

Q. My nephew is in the navy and has left the states. His folks have had only one letter from him since June 6. His mother is nearly frantic. He was in China when they heard from him and his ship was on a cruise. His address is U.S.S. Tappahannock, A.O. 43, % Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco. Could you tell me where he could be or where his ship is stationed?—J.M., Waucoma, Iowa.

A. The navy says the U.S.S. Tappahannock is stationed at Yokosuka, Japan, which is near Tokyo. You might write to the Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington 25, D. C., giving your nephew's name, rank, etc., in case he has been transferred from this ship.

Q. I am a married man in the army. I was inducted in September, 1945. I am still a draftee. We expect our first child in November. Under this order I can request to be discharged then. Is this true?—Pfc. S.R., Ft. Eustis, Va.

A. Yes, married men with children are eligible to apply for discharge.

Q. My son is in Japan. He doesn't get our mail from home. I receive all his letters. Can you tell me why he does not get our letters from home, since I send them to the address. He is aboard the USS Salamoni, a seaman 2nd class, Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco, Calif.—Mrs. M.G., Marthaville, La.

A. The chances are your son's ship is on the move and mail is not delivered until the ship touches a port where mail from the states can be taken aboard. In many instances months go by before mail reaches ships of the fleet at sea.

HOW TO

BUY A USED CAR

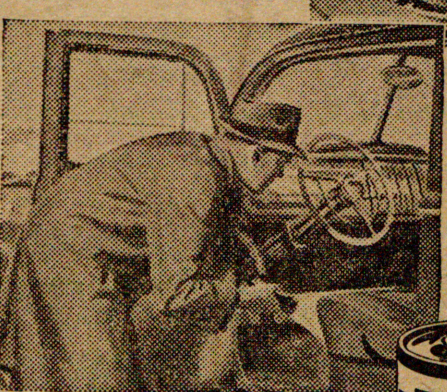

—as suggested by "Automotive News,"
the newspaper of the industry

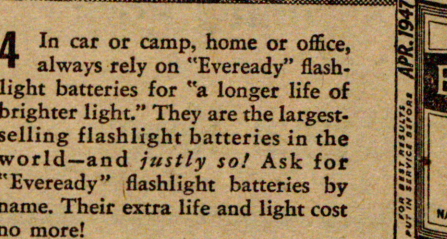

1 Your best guarantee of a good buy is a good dealer. But today's used cars are often offered by "curbstone operators," or so-called "private parties." Then it's wise to get off alone with the car. You can judge general appearance...try lights, brakes, wiper, horn. Allow $10 for repairing a broken window, $5 for a dent. Always...

2 Shine your flashlight on the engine. Extra dirty? This shows many miles of poor care. Rust streaks or fresh oil on the block may mean cracks—around plugs, it shows oil pumping. And your flashlight will spot motor numbers—show at once if they match the title. Next...

3 Turn beam along frame and body—kinks suggest "Rebuilt wreck." Grease on running gear means wear. Look for worn pedals, shabby upholstery, dirt. Lift rubber around windshield! See yellow or green paint? Look out! May be an ex-taxi!

4 In car or camp, home or office, always rely on "Eveready" flashlight batteries for "a longer life of brighter light." They are the largest-selling flashlight batteries in the world—and justly so! Ask for "Eveready" flashlight batteries by name. Their extra life and light cost no more!

REPUBLICAN LEADERS PREDICT CLEAN SWEEP OF CO. OFFICES

Going into the final campaign week before the November 5 election, Republican leaders in Will County are predicting a clean sweep of county offices by Republican candidates. "We are confident," said A. F. Schupp, Will County Republican chairman, "that the people of our county will cast an overwhelming Republican vote in this election for two good reasons: first, because they are appreciative of the good government that Will County and Illinois have had under their present Republican officials, and want to see it continued; and second, because they realize that by sending Republicans to Congress they can help to straighten out the confusion and fumbling that is so conspicuous today in Washington."

A high point of the final week's campaign in Will County is the evening meeting on Thursday, October 31 at the Woodruff Hotel, Joliet, sponsored by the Republican Women's Club. The meeting, which is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock, will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dorothy Dibel June, club president.

Mrs. Helen S. Thomson, corresponding secretary of the Federation of Illinois Republican Women's Clubs, will be the featured speaker at the meeting, which is open to all interested women of Will County. Republican candidates will attend as guests of honor.

Musical numbers by the popular McFee Trio are also on the evening's program and refreshments will be served.

Assisting Mrs. June in arrangements for the meeting are: Mrs. W. O. Herschbach, communications chairman; Mrs. Frances Spesia, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Arthur E. Kelly, membership chairman; Mrs. L. M. Maier, program chairman; Mrs. Julius Westphal, Jr., legislative chairman; and Mrs. Jessie Wehr, finance chairman. Officers of the club serving with Mrs. June are Mrs. Raymond J. Smith, first vice president; Mrs. Kelly, second vice president; Mrs. C. A. McCay, secretary; and Mrs. Leonard Spaulding, treasurer.

PICK YOUR CORN EARLY!

Dry It In Crib, with Behlen All-Steel
Ventilators and Tunnels

New, modern, fast way to dry corn. No more waiting for corn to dry in fields. Pick early, when mechanical pickers work best. Crib it, and let Behlen Ventilators and Tunnels dry corn faster than you ever dreamed possible.

GOODBYE TO CORN BORERS!

Agricultural colleges and experimental stations recommend picking early, to help control corn borers. You get your corn into cribs to dry, and shred or chop stalks and plow under before ground freezes, to kill the borers.

Behlen Tunnels not only ventilate, but are very handy for shelling. Just run sheller "drag" into tunnel, as at left. Pull out tunnel sections one by one. Corn drops onto conveyor belt. Saves hours of labor!

COME IN NOW!

Don't wait. We have Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Corn Tunnels on hand now. But due to present industrial situation, we cannot promise we will get any more this fall. We strongly urge you to come in right away, while we are still able to supply you. Cost is less than for old-style wood ventilators.

"EDITORIAL"

Several thousand young men from Illinois who would be voting in the November 5 election if there had not been a World War II, will not be here to vote. There bodies lie in Normany on Saipan and at Anzio, where they gave their lives that you might continue to be free.

Those young men made their sacrifice as an obligation of citizenship in a free nation. Certainly you, as a citizen have as great an obligation to yourself to your nation, and to the dead who gave their lives for you, to exercise your freedom by voting November 5.

Six days after the election, on Armistice Day, November 11, you will honor our war dead. You have an equal opportunity and obligation to honor them by going to the polls November 5. This election day has been designated Citizens' Day by 50 of the leading civic organizations in Chicago. These groups with many thousands of members who are representative of all religious creeds, racial ties, and political affiliations, have combined their resources in a city-wide nonpartisan effort to get out the vote.

The name, Citizens' Day is well chosen. It is the day on which, although ours is a form of representative self-government, the voices of all citizens may be heard in the affairs of government. And it is well to remember that November 5 is the last day on which your voice may be effectively heard in the national affairs for two years.

Will County Needs Him As Sheriff

JOHN KIRINCICH

WILL COUNTY NEEDS IN THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE, A MAN WHO IS EXPERIENCED, CAPABLE, AND DEPENDABLE. IT NEEDS A MAN WHO UNDERSTANDS THE PROTECTION PROBLEMS OF COUNTRY FOLKS AND CITY FOLKS ALIKE. IT NEEDS A MAN WITH BROAD LAW-ENFORCEMENT EXPERIENCE, AND A MAN WITH THE COURAGE OF HIS CONVICTIONS, WHO CAN BE DEPENDENT UPON TO ENFORCE THE LAW, WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR, FOR ALL THE PEOPLE OF WILL COUNTY.

Will County knows John Kirincich, and John Kirincich knows Will County. As a deputy sheriff under the late Oliver Flint, and for the past ten years a member of the Joliet Police Department assigned to the State's Attorney's office as an investigator. John Kirincich has proved himself a capable, just, and fearless law-enforcement officer. He has cooperated closely with the "F" Men and other farm groups in keeping lawlessness out of Will County. He has proved that he can and will enforce the law faithfully and fairly. Will County needs John Kirincich as Sheriff!

Wild Bill Elliott with Anne Jeffreys in a scene from Republic's latest thriller, "Mojave Firebrand," co-starring Gabby Hayes.

A society girl, torch singer and a man of mystery strangely meet in this tense, taut drama of fate, "The Hoodlum Saint", which will be featured at the Roxy Theatre at Lockport next Wednesday and Thursday. Starring in this thrill-a-minute melodrama are William Powell, Esther Williams and Angela Lansbury.

This is a most unusual story of St. Dismas, alleged patron saint of all hoodlums. Powell becomes the press agent for the Saint, and by chance chases a wedding party and falls in love with Miss Williams, but the romance fails to materialize because he is constantly bent on ruthless ambitions to attain great wealth with the aid of his hoodlum associates. He is being thrown back and forth between Miss Williams and Miss Lansbury, a torch singer. In a market crash he is wiped clean of a fortune, altho his pals still stay by him. He finds Miss Williams is married. Between the stock market crash and the society girl's marriage he is taken ill. At this time he discovers his old gang are swindlers under the guise of the St. Dismas fund. Despite his illness, he returns to the old gang and demands that they return the stolen funds. St. Dismas takes over the story from here, bringing it to a pulse-pounding climax.

"O.S.S.", with Alan Ladd and Geraldine Fitzgerald, will open at the Roxy Theatre Sunday for three days.

Sunshine Increases Vitamins

Studies indicate that sunshine increases vitamin C. Citrus fruit growing on the sunny side of the tree has been found richer in C than the fruit growing in the center of the tree or on the shady sides. Tomatoes ripened in sun, not injuriously hot, have proved considerably richer in C than those ripened in shade or in cloudy weather.

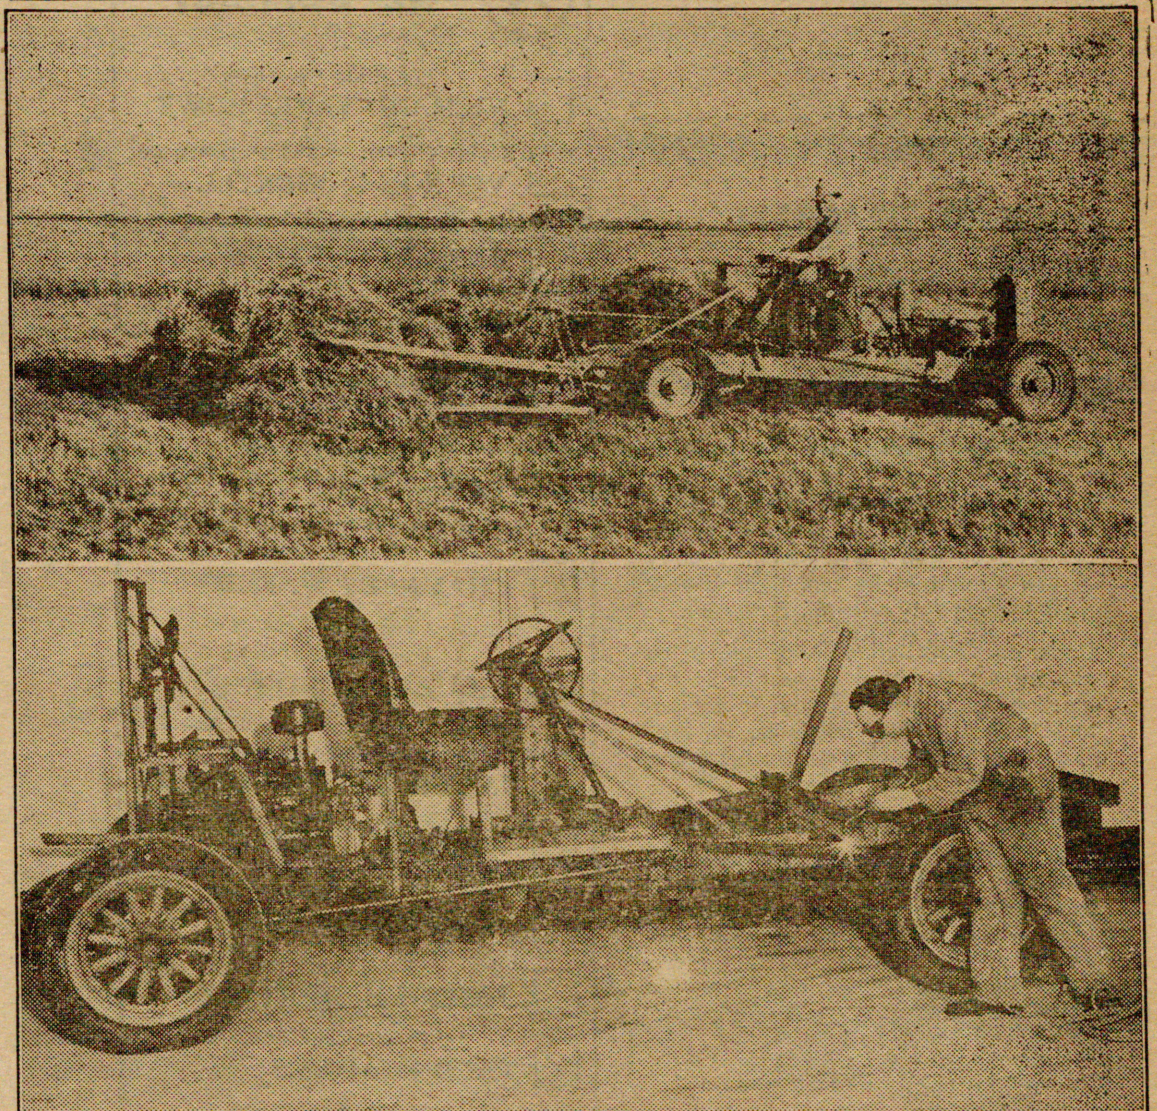

Produce Castor Oil

Castor oil, which in its dehydrated form is used to an important degree in modern paint and varnish products, is now being produced in Cuba. Actual production in 1944 was estimated to be between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 pounds. Total oil yield is reported to be 48 per cent of the weight of the castor beans.

CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB

Licking Farm Manpower Shortage

With the United States called on to produce more food than at any other time in its history, and with farmers sorely pressed by the manpower shortage and breakdowns in urgently needed equipment they are trying to make last for the duration, Chevrolet dealers held a conference to see how they could help. One of the mechanical marvels that resulted from the parley was the "bull rake," used for haying, which can be built locally at low cost from a junker chassis. Upper photo, a single operator with a rake is said to equal the productivity of three men with three teams of horses, and is reported to increase haying efficiency 200 to 300 per cent. Thus the rake saves the farmer money by eliminating the cost and care of six horses throughout the year, and by releasing limited manpower to other agricultural work. Haying with the "bull rake," or basket, enables the farmer to pick up about 1,000 pounds of hay without stopping, at speeds of five to 15 miles an hour. The basket is 12 to 16 feet wide, with eight-foot prongs that can be raised on completion of the pick-up for a speedy run to the stack. Several hundred such "bull rakes" are now in use. Lower photo, a Chevrolet mechanic converting a "bull rake," mechanical warrior of World War II, from a junker automobile chassis. Since the basket or rake must be mounted on the rear of the chassis, which becomes the front end of the completed rake, the transmission must be turned to obtain three speeds backward. Other changes are required in the cooling system, brake system and steering mechanism.

Friendship—Three Thousand Miles Apart

Ever play chess? It's a great game! One of the strongest friendships I know of started with a game of chess—between Dad Hoskins, in our town, and a man named Dalton Barnes, in England.

They've never seen each other, never met. But for the past eight years they've been playing chess by mail together—Dad puzzling over Dalton's latest letter, while he sends a chart of his next move to England.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the Englishman writes him that he does the same. "You know, it's almost as if we shared a glass of beer together, too!" says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often those little things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding... between people of all nations... between neighbors here at home!

DO IT WITH Ballots

In this country ballots take the place of bullets. If you don't like the way things are going in this country, speak up at the polls on November 5 and get yourself a new set of officials who will run the country as you want it to be run. That is your right—your duty—as an American.

Under our Constitution the people of the country are expected to express at the election booth their wishes as to government policy. If they fail to do so, they fail to do their duty by their country and themselves.

If you are against the idea of having veterans homeless, if you are against food shortages and high living costs, if you want lasting peace, high production, and the privilege to live your own life your own way, this plant has never stopped GROWING Behind your telephone instrument stands a great amount of equipment—wires, cables, conduit, switchboards, buildings and so on. We call this equipment "plant."

Ten years ago about three hundred million dollars of plant was needed for customers' telephone service. Today's service requires 35 per cent more—about four hundred million dollars of plant investment.

In the next three years, the figures will go still higher. Because, to give the public the kind of telephone service it wants and needs, more and more equipment will have to be installed.

Like the cost of most everything else the cost of providing this plant and keeping it in good condition for good telephone service has been climbing higher and higher. The result is that our rate of earnings is at the lowest point in 25 years.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 27, was:

"PROBATION AFTER DEATH"

The Golden Text was:

"Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him" (James 1: 12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure

... Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Phil. 2:

12-13; Matt. 5: 48).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The divine demand, 'Be ye therefore perfect,' is scientific, and the human footsteps leading to perfection are indispensable.

Individuals are consistent who,

watching and praying, can 'run, and not be weary; ... walk, and not faint,' who gain good rapidly and hold their position, or attain slowly and yield not to discouragement. God requires perfection, but not until the battle between Spirit and flesh is fought and the victory won ... the human self must be evangelized.

This task God demands us to accept lovingly to-day, and to abandon so fast as practical the material, and to work out the spiritual which determines the outward and actual" (253, 254).

Do You Know The Meaning Of The Various "Isms"

AMERICANISM THE BEST ISM

During the past few weeks we have heard political campaigners hurling the names "Fascist", "Communist", or some other "ism" at anyone who has dared to differ even slightly in his views on any of the many problems that confront America today. Perhaps it would be well to define these terms which have been so recklessly bandied around. Here follow thumb-nail descriptions of the various "isms".

COMMUNISM is an organization of society on the basis of common ownership of the means of production and of the goods produced. Like Socialism and Anarchism it demands that production be for common use and not for private gain. It regiments all labor. It differs from Socialism in its theory of the State, in that it sets up a federation of communes or groups instead of a central administration. Communism had its most thorough tryout in Russia, and that nation already has discarded most of it as impractical and unworkable.

FASCISM is, or rather was, a form of totalitarian dictatorship creating a high nationalistic state. It opposes political Communism because it recognizes private property and certain individual rights. However, its principal tenet is that society does not exist for the individual but that the individual exists for the State. While it leaves production and distribution of wealth, in some degree to individual enterprise, it practices a strict state discipline over business and labor organizations, banning strikes and lock-outs. Fascism had a thorough tryout in Italy and was a pitiful failure.

NAZISM is a political hash, the original ingredients of which were Socialism, Communism and Capitalism. In practice it evolved into a copy of Fascism, slightly altered to suit Germany or rather the Nazi ruling clique. It stands for an authoritarian corporate State, banning all political organizations opposed to the Nazi theory. It regiments the individual to complete subservience to the State. Nazism nurtures within its bosom the seeds of its own destruction and of any nation upon which it fastens its tentacles, as was recently demonstrated in Germany.

SOCIALISM is a philosophy rather than a political system, idealistic in concept and theory but unworkable in practice. It opposes the holding of the sources of wealth, land, capital, etc., as private property. It does recognize that private property can only be abolished by an evolutionary change in the thinking of human beings. It aims, therefore, at "reforming" society and "equalizing" people, substituting collective for individual action. It seeks to set up communal ownership to replace private ownership of wealth and the means of production. Its shibboleth is: "Production for use and not for profit". Socialism has been tried many times in many places. Wherever it has been practiced it has become bureaucratic, has seized the main activities of a nation or municipality, administered them by government-appointed individuals or boards, and has leveled society so that the intelligent, industrious and thrifty people had less, while the lazy, the idle, the inefficient and the unintelligent got more for a time. But this has always ended up in all having nothing.

AMERICANISM has many other names, among which are "Capitalism", "Free Enterprise", "The American Way" and "Profit and Loss System". Under Americanism the individual is supreme; the State exists for him and not he for the State. The intelligent, industrious and thrifty have more than the unintelligent, lazy and thrifless. There is equal opportunity for all but the rewards are unequal, depending entirely on the individual's contribution to society.

On November 5 let's make sure we vote for candidates who stand unequivocally for "Americanism—the system which has served us so well for so long a time."

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

Do you realize that approximately 11 per cent of your taxes goes to the Sanitary District?

Calling for Republican representation for the country towns on the Sanitary District of Cook County, William S. Nordburg, Republican nominee for trustee of the district, opened his campaign for election with an appeal to all Republicans to vote and to see that their friends vote on November 5.

"No man or woman can claim the honor of being a Republican unless he votes", Nordburg said. "If you value your high privilege of being an American citizen, you must vote. There is only one place where your desires are registered, and that is the ballot box."

"No stone must be left unturned to get 100 per cent of our citizens to vote", he emphasized.

Nordburg, who lives at 489 Sunset Road, Winnetka, is the only candidate for sanitary trustee in either party who lives in the country towns.

"We need a Republican from the country towns who will look out for our interests", he declared in this, his first statement of the fall campaign. "We need a man who will take suggestions and someone whom we can write to about our particular needs, a man who understands the problems of the country towns and who will represent them as they deserve to be represented."

Amplifying this statement Nordburg outlines a program whereby he would set up close relations with mayors, village presidents, managers and trustees of the country towns to keep informed of the requirements of every town in Cook county and so be able to represent their citizens better after his election on November 5.

As Managing Director of Cook County's leading suburban weekly newspapers, William S. Nordburg understands the needs and interests of the suburban communities; is a "natural" to represent them as Trustee of the Sanitary District.

A resident of Cook County all his life, and a businessman in Chicago, Nordburg is Secretary-Treasurer of the North Shore Sunday Evening Club, and is active in Masonic circles and numerous civic organizations and enterprises.

Nordburg plans an intensive campaign during the last days of the 1946 campaign, and will speak at ward and township rallies regularly until election day. Long active in Republican Party affairs, he is secretary-treasurer of the Regular Republican Organization of New Trier township.

Governor Green
And The Soldiers Bonus

Governor Dwight H. Green in an interview early this week predicted a sweeping Republican victory in the election next Tuesday, November 5. He forecast that Illinois, riding the crest of national landslide to the G. O. P., would elect the entire Republican state ticket, add at least six seats to the Illinois Republican delegation in Congress, and for the first time in eighteen years elect the Republican county ticket in Cook County.

The Governor accompanied his prediction with a special plea to all voters to support the Illinois Veterans' Bonus and appealed for a tremendous vote on the bonus referendum to rebuke the organized opposition which has sought to prevent the ratification of the bonus plan adopted almost unanimously by the special session of the General Assembly. The votes of the veterans and their families, he said, will assure victory for the bonus.

"The future prosperity and happiness of our returned veterans is the major issue of this campaign," Governor Green declared. "The great swing to the Republican party throughout the nation results from the conviction of the people that Republican rule will end the shortages and the economic confusion now stagnating American business and speed the return of prosperity in which the veterans, who risked all for our country, may achieve the happiness and prosperity they so richly deserve."

"That trend will result in tremendous majorities for Richard Yates Rowe for state treasurer, Dr. Vernon L. Nickell for reelection as superintendent of public instruction, and William G. Stratton for Congressman at Large. It means that the Republicans will elect every Congressman in down state Illinois and at least half of the ten Congressmen from Cook County, where the New Dealers now hold nine of the ten seats."

"Polls which have been taken very carefully in every section of Cook County show that the bonus is the issue of the election."

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
New Lenox, Illinois
The Rev. John M. Cleveland, Rector

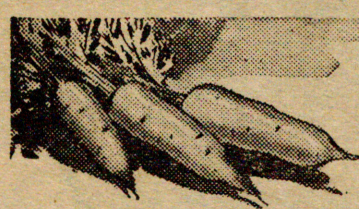

County point conclusively to a Republican sweep which will carry both Cook County and the city of Chicago. The election of our Republican county ticket which includes some twenty five veterans of World War I and World War II, and the defeat of the Kelly machine in Cook county for the first time in eighteen years will, I believe, prove to be the outstanding news of this election in the entire country.

"I am particularly pleased at the reports I have received of the way the people are rallying to the support of the Illinois Veterans' Bonus law. This question appears on a separate ballot, the so called Service Recognition ballot. For the bonus to take effect, it must be approved at this referendum by a majority of all voters voting for candidates for the General Assembly."

"The Illinois bonus plan is the most liberal adopted by any state. It provides for the payment to each man or woman from Illinois who served in the armed forces in World War II ten dollars a month for each month of service in the United States and fifteen dollars a month for each month of service outside the country. It is estimated that the average bonus payment will be in excess of $400. The maximum amount of $900 will be paid to the next of kin of every Illinoisan who died in the service of our country."

"The attempt of a few selfish and wealthy men to defeat the bonus has only aroused the veterans, their families, and all veterans' organizations to fight harder for the bonus. The false claim of those who oppose any bonus under any conditions that the Illinois bonus will increase general property taxes has fallen flat with the people. The people know that the bonus will be paid for from special taxes provided for that purpose and from the general revenue funds of the state."

"I repeat my pledge to the people that while I am Governor there will never be a general property tax levied by the state. I am sure there will be none so long as the present sound Republican Administration of our state government is maintained. I am happy to know that every Republican candidate, and each Republican precinct worker, is campaigning as hard for the bonus as for any man on our ticket."

What You Should Know About

HOME FREEZERS

Before you buy a home freezer it is well to consider all the facts so you will know which unit will suit your purpose. You may have asked yourself "What advantages are there in a home freezer for me? What type do I need?" The answers to these questions depend on the size of your family, your home, and the availability of fresh foods.

Home freezers were not manufactured during the war, but the fortunate housewives who were "freezing" voiced their approval with such enthusiasm and wholehearted praise that women the country over decided they must have one. Many companies will have freezers available later in the year.

What are the advantages of a freezer?

Meal planning ceases to depend on the seasons or local markets when you have a home freezer. With a variety of frozen foods on hand (home and commercially frozen foods, including breads, pies, cakes and ice cream) meals can be prepared on a moment's notice. Unexpected guests can be served fine "company dinners" . . . meals which ordinarily would take long hours of planning, shopping and preparing. Out-of-season foods can be enjoyed at your table as fresh as they were in the garden months earlier and at as low a cost as when they were in season.

For those of you who grow fruits and vegetables, or have easy access to quantities of foods from local farms or markets, freezing will save time, vital food values, flavor and color. Actual time studies show that preservation by freezing takes approximately 1/3 the time required for home canning or dehydrating foods.

What size and style will you need?

You can estimate the size you will need by planning on one cubic foot as adequate for about 30 pounds of frozen food.

Many new household refrigerators have a low temperature compartment which may meet your requirements if your family is small or if there is no suitable location for a freezer.

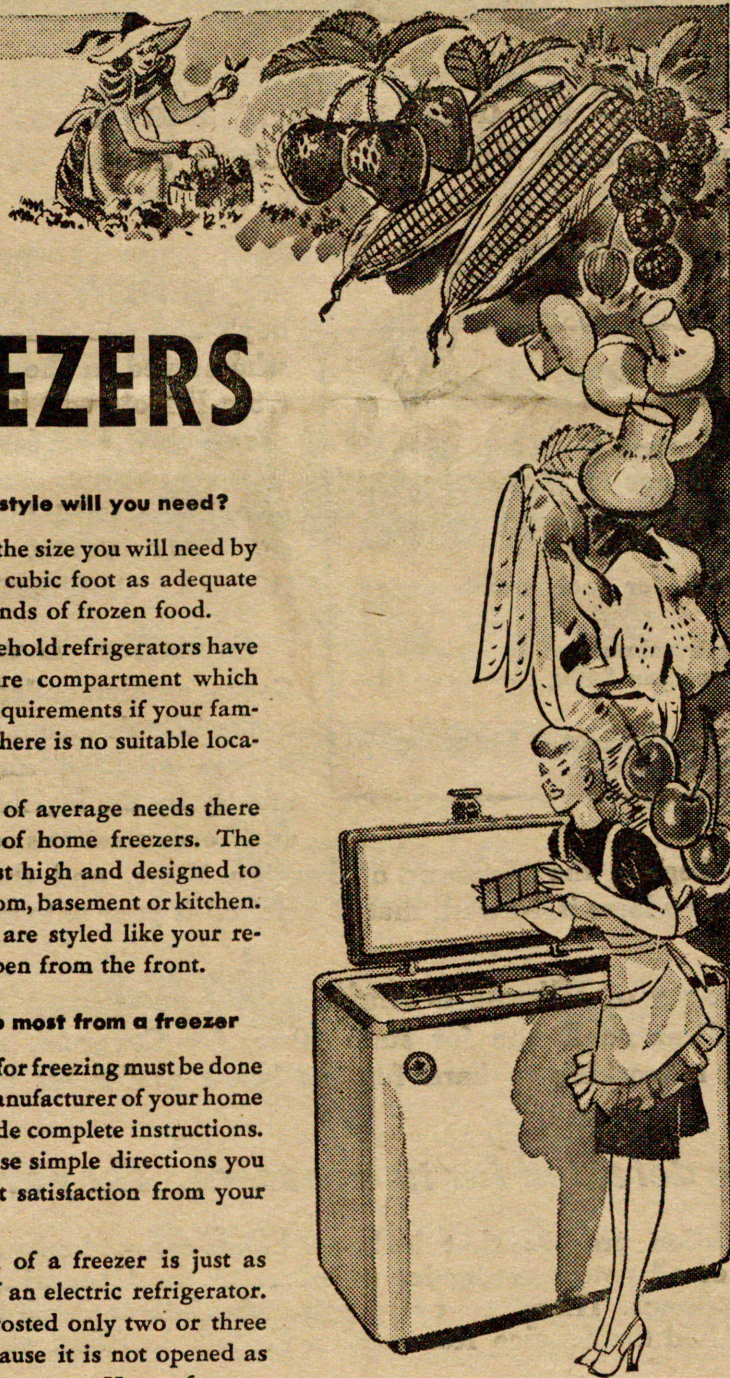

For the family of average needs there are many types of home freezers. The chest-type is waist high and designed to fit into a utility room, basement or kitchen. Upright freezers are styled like your refrigerator and open from the front.

How to get the most from a freezer

Preparing foods for freezing must be done with care. The manufacturer of your home freezer will provide complete instructions. By following those simple directions you will get the most satisfaction from your freezer.

The operation of a freezer is just as simple as that of an electric refrigerator. It has to be defrosted only two or three times a year because it is not opened as often as a refrigerator. Home freezers can be plugged into any wall outlet and operate at a monthly cost slightly higher than a standard refrigerator of the same capacity.

FREE copies of our interesting new booklet "Facts about Home Freezers," may be obtained at your Public Service store or by writing the company.

has issued the following letter to each Post Master: "Complaints of damage to rural mail boxes, as well as theft of mail from such boxes and other boxes designated for the deposit of and delivery of mail matter, have been on the increase. It is noted that, to a large extent, children are responsible for these acts. With the approach of Halloween a still greater increase in complaints of this nature may be expected.

Depredations of this nature can be kept down to a minimum by educating the children and warning them of the consequences of their acts. To this end, it is requested that you contact the principals of the schools in your city and rural vicinity and arrange with them to have the teachers inform their pupils that it is a violation of the postal laws to steal or damage mail boxes and their contents and that severe penalties are provided, up to three years in a penal institution or a fine of $1,000, or both.

It is essential that this sort of juvenile delinquency be curtailed and your assistance is needed. As Halloween is near at hand, attention should be given this matter promptly, in the manner indicated above, and in such other ways as may suggest themselves to you.

Complaints of tampering with rural mail boxes should be reported immediately to local law enforcement officers as well as to this office.

Will Your Veteran Get His Bonus?

That is for YOU to decide, You and Your Veteran and all his family and friends. You will decide it at the election next Tuesday, November fifth.

YOUR VETERAN—your son, your husband, your brother, or your boy friend, or your neighbor's boy—and every man or woman who served in the armed forces from Illinois will be eligible for a cash bonus under the Illinois

Veterans' Bonus law. The money will be paid him next year
IF YOU VOTE FOR THE BONUS NOVEMBER FIFTH.

Governor Dwight H.
Green recommended the bonus to the Illinois General Assembly.
It was adopted almost unanimously by the legislature. Veterans' organizations everywhere,

The Illinois Bonus Plan Provides

For every man or woman from Illinois who served in the armed forces in World War II:

Ten dollars a month for each month served in the United States.

Fifteen dollars a month for each month served abroad.

A minimum of $50, a maximum of $900, and an estimated average of more than $400, for every Illinois veteran.

Nine hundred dollars for the next of kin of every Illinoisan who died while in service.

including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the American Veterans of World War II, endorse it. Now all that is required is your vote next Tuesday.

The Republican party of Illinois is making this campaign for the bonus. Every Republican candidate for state office, for Congress, and for Cook County offices, is working as hard for the bonus as for his own election. YET—

The Bonus may be defeated for two reasons. They are:

1. The State Constitution provides that the bonus bonds cannot be issued unless a majority of all voters voting for members of the General Assembly vote Yes on the bonus. Therefore, every voter who fails to mark the separate bonus ballot (called the Service Recognition Ballot) in effect votes against it.

2. An organized campaign is being waged to defeat the bonus. That campaign is financed by men who made fortunes at home while our boys were fighting at the front. It is being helped by selfish men who are unwilling to make a small sacrifice for the veterans who risked—and made—the supreme sacrifice for their country.

They have trumped up a lot of phony arguments. (Like the one answered in the box at the right.) Their chief hope, however, is that YOU and YOUR VETERAN and all the people who want him to have the bonus, won't bother to vote for it.

So, if you want YOUR VETERAN to have his bonus, be sure to vote the bonus ballot which is marked "Service Recognition Ballot," and

Don't Be Fooled By This Trick

Opponents of the bonus are trying to scare the voters by telling them that if the bonus wins, real estate and personal property taxes will be raised. Here are the facts and those who are paying to spread this rumor know them:

The bonus measure provides special taxes on cigarettes and race-track betting to pay the cost of the bonus.

Every Illinois state bond issue contains the property tax provision, required by the constitution but no state property tax has been levied in Illinois for twelve years and millions of bonds have been paid off. Governor Green has pledged that no property tax will be levied to pay the bonus bonds.

If you are worried about taxes, don't worry about the bonus plan. Vote Yes on the Bonus and Vote for your Republican candidate for Congress who is pledged to reduce income taxes twenty percent and for the Republican candidates in Cook County who are pledged to stop the waste of tax funds in your local government.

The weather was ideal and everyone wore their best smile. Mrs. Wanner was remembered with gifts, flowers and a great many cards. She was all aglow with happiness. But she was not the only one of the family who was celebrating on that day. There was Harry Tewes her son in law, who also was reminded that he had passed another milestone in life and congratulations were in order for him. Then last but not least was little Gerald Fleming son of M. and Mrs. M. Passh Fleming son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, a great-grandson of Mrs. Wanner who had just reached the ripe old age of 3 years. The afternoon was spent informally. A large birthday cake and ice cream and other good things were enjoyed by all present. They departed with best wishes for many happy returns.

Frank Folkers Sr., who has been ill for some time is slowly gaining strength, but is still very feeble.

Mrs. Donald Beach and two children left for their home last Wednesday, after spending almost two months with her mother and other relatives and friends.

Mr. Wesley Hollstein has been very ill and confined to his home for the past week; he is now improving and hopes to be back on his job soon.

More About James Clark For Sheriff

I am not in any way connected with any gambling syndicates and if elected to the Office of Sheriff of Will County, I will do my best to keep such syndicates out of Will County. In the past few months we have had 4 murders in Will County, 2 in the direct cause of gambling syndicates. We also have had a Grand Jury investigation into gambling, the Grand Jury having recessed until November 12th, to give the authorities time to locate witnesses who have escaped the Supreme server. With the right kind of officials in office, Will County will not have to spend a lot of the taxpayers money for Grand Jury investigations.

Will County has an "F" man organization, which is an important law-enforcing body, among the rural district. It has been neglected lately, and should be brought up to a standard, where its efficiency can be felt, in case of a rural crime wave.

I am married, my wife and I live at 825 Cora Street, Joliet, Illinois. I also have 2 children, who are married and reside in Joliet.

Voters, when you go to the polls on November 5th, to vote, stop and think, vote for honesty, qualifications and capability. James E. Clark has these qualifications, as his record will show. Your support and vote appreciated. Thank you.

JAMES E. CLARK

Bread Waste

One way to prevent bread waste is not to overbuy. Because bread becomes too stale for many people's taste in a few days, it should be purchased in small quantity. At home keep bread cool and well covered to prevent mold and drying out. If there isn't room in the refrigerator to store your well-wrapped loaf, keep it in a ventilated bread box in a cool place.

Erickson Gets Stout Backing In Board Race

Enthusiastic over Republican chances in the Nov. 5 election, Commissioner Wm. N. Erickson, of Evanston, is spear-heading a campaign to elect all 5 country towns candidates to the Cook County Board of Commissioners. Commissioner Erickson is seeking re-election to the board and also the presidency in the vigorous campaign which the G.O.P. is waging. His name will appear in two places on the ballot.

The popular candidate has received the endorsement of the Republican organization and has strong backing from numerous civic and fraternal groups in which he has been active. A veteran of three terms on the board he is thoroughly conversant with its problems, and his backers describe him as a well qualified candidate for its presidency.

Running for re-election with Erickson are Wm. Busse, Geo. A. Miller, Geo. F. Nixon and John Mackler. All have given the so-called country towns area—that part of Cook County lying outside Chicago—adequate representation on the board. Their popularity is attested by the fact they have been elected in the face of New Deal land-slides elsewhere in Cook County.

The group points to a record of achievement in administering the county's affairs, opposing unnecessary expenditures while lending wholehearted support to measures intended to provide more efficient public service.

Erickson, a World War I veteran, served from 1942 to 1945 in the Coast Guard reserve. He resides with his wife and daughter at 1605 Ridge Ave.

John Mackler Seeking Second Term On Board

John Mackler, long a Republican leader in Southern Cook County, is seeking re-election to the Cook County Board of Commissioners as a representative of the so-called country towns district as his first term as a commissioner draws to a close.

Commissioner Mackler is teamed with Wm. N. Erickson, candidate for member and president of the board, and Wm. Busse, Geo. A. Miller and Geo. F. Nixon in the G.O.P.'s vigorous campaign for support at the polls on election day, Nov. 5.

Mackler, who has been a Chicago Heights resident for the past 52 years, has been a successful business man for a long period of time. He started his business career in a steel mill, then organized the John Mackler Construction company in 1916. He has headed that thriving contracting organization for the past sixteen years.

Commissioner Mackler, former postmaster of Chicago Heights, lives with his family at 1535 Chicago Rd., in that suburb. He has exhibited a vital interest in affairs of the county board since his election to membership 4 years ago.

With his fellow Republican candidates from the country towns area, he has helped to make up a strong minority which claims credit for improving administration of the county's business.

Typographical Errors

That the eyes of the average person are not trained to observe typographical errors is revealed in experiments upon a group of students. Typewritten sheets with omitted letters, wrong letters and blurred letters made by typing an "X" over them, were given to the students to read. The average reader detected only 40 per cent of the omissions of letters, 22 per cent of the incorrect letters and 14 per cent of the blurred letters. The errors were best detected when at the beginning of words.

Illinois Schools Under G. O. P. Climb To Top Eleven

Nickell Reveals 42nd Rating Was Under Democrat Administration

Vernon L. Nickell, Republican candidate or re-election as superintendent of public instruction, has revealed that Mayor Kelly's contention that Illinois ranks 42nd in the national rating of educational efficiency dates back to the last Democratic state administration.

"Mayor Kelly did not disclose that the data upon which he based this allegation was gathered in 1938 and '39, when Democrats controlled your state education administration," said Nickell, a teacher and school administrator for 32 years.

"For a more recent and true evaluation of Illinois' standing among the states in this respect, I refer you to the April 1946 issue of 'The American Magazine'. In that issue, in connection with an article written by Dr. John Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education at Washington, a table was printed which placed Illinois, not 42nd, but among the 11 top states in education.

"For yet another and accurate measuring stick of how Illinois rates educationally, I refer you to the records of the selective service in world war II. They show that only one other state in the nation had fewer rejections of draftees per thousand for educational deficiencies."

Nickell referred to the condition of the Chicago public school system as 'shocking'. He said Kelly has attempted to sidetrack Gov. Green's proposal for a legislative investigation of these conditions by shouting for more investigations elsewhere.

Foremost among the funds provided by the state is the state school distributive fund. For Illinois as a whole, the school distributive fund has been increased from $31,380,000 in 1941 to $44,087,000 in 1945. His distributive fund, which is used both for furnishing teaching equipment and for teachers' salaries has been increased to the point where it now makes available $19 for every child in average daily attendance in our elementary schools and $4 for every student in average daily attendance in our high schools.

Pointing out that the Republican state educational administration has been thoroughly responsive to the obligation owing our returned veterans, Mr. Nickell said means have been provided for those who chose to complete their regular courses of study, interrupted when they answered their country's call, and for others to train themselves to earn an adequate livelihood.

"The successful operation of this program," he said, "is attested by the fact that more than 10,000 war veterans have been awarded their high school diplomas, and more than 90,000 others are now taking advantage of the chance to train themselves in agriculture, in business, in industry and in the trades."

Primitive Farming

A Chinese farmer puts in 26 man-days to produce an acre of winter wheat, while an American farmer does it in 1.2 man-days. While the detailed reasons for this disparity in output include virtually every chemical and biological discovery of interest to agriculture, the primary factor is mechanization.
